

After our premier exhibition of David Byrd's work in 2013, much has progressed for his enduring legacy. Though he died a month after our show closed, we partnered with his estate to introduce his work in New York City at the 2014 ADAA art fair. His friend, Jody Isaacson, has expanded his career from there.

Byrd created his magnum opus, Montrose VA 1958-1988, to record the 30 years he spent working as an orderly at the Veteran's Administration Hospital in Montrose, NY. We selected many unbound pages from Byrd's original large-scale manuscript to be displayed in vitrines. We also borrowed back some of the paintings from our original show which are referenced by studies in the book. Byrd's estate is now ably represented by Anton Kern Gallery in New York, to which we are grateful for the loan of the Montrose album. We will also offer a full-scale reproduction of the book for sale, produced by his estate and Anton Kern.
